ABA Foundation and FBI Release New Infographic to Help Americans Spot and Avoid Deepfake Scams

American Bankers Association (09/03, Staff Writer) reported that the American Bankers Association Foundation and the FBI have released a new infographic to educate the public about deepfake scams. The article noted that according to the FBI, over 4.2 million fraud reports have been filed since 2020, resulting in over $50.5 billion in losses, with a growing portion stemming from deepfake scams. According to the article, the infographic provides tips to help consumers recognize and avoid deepfake scams, including verifying identities, stopping and thinking before responding to urgent requests, and reporting scams to the FBI. Quoted in the article, FBI Criminal Investigative Division Assistant Director Jose A. Perez stated, "The FBI continues to see a troubling rise in fraud reports involving deepfake media. Educating the public about this emerging threat is key to preventing these scams and minimizing their impact. We encourage consumers to stay informed and share what they learn with friends and family so they can spot deepfakes before they do any harm. Our partnership with the ABA Foundation reflects a shared commitment to protecting consumers and advancing this important public awareness effort."

CCP-Backed Hacking Operations Breach Hundreds of U.S. Groups

The Epoch Times (09/03, Thornebrooke) reported that the Chinese Communist Party (CCP) has been backing hacking operations against the U.S. and other nations since at least 2019, with the group known as Salt Typhoon breaching hundreds of organizations. According to the article, the hacking attempts have targeted various sectors, including telecommunications, government, transportation, and military infrastructure networks, with over 200 U.S.-based organizations and foreign organizations in 80 nations affected. The article noted that the breached data has likely enabled the CCP to track the movements and communications of its targets in real time, with three China-based companies providing cyber-related products and services to China's intelligence services. "Active since at least 2019, these actors conducted a significant cyber-espionage campaign, breaching global telecommunications privacy and security norms," Brett Leatherman, head of the FBI's Cyber Division, said in a pre-recorded statement. "Beijing's indiscriminate targeting of private communications demands our stronger collaboration with partners to identify and counter this activity at the earliest stages." The American Hospital Association (09/03, Staff Writer) also reported on the story.

FBI Warns Seniors Are Being Targeted in Three-Phase Phantom Hacker Scams

FORTRA (09/03, Cluley) reported that the FBI warned that seniors are being targeted in a three-phase "Phantom Hacker" scam, which combines social engineering and technology to steal funds. According to the article, the scam involves three phases: a tech support imposter, a financial institution imposter, and a U.S. government imposter, aiming to gain the victim's trust and access to their funds. The FBI advised seniors to be cautious and never click on unsolicited links, download software from unknown parties, or allow remote access to their devices, and to report any incidents to their local FBI field office and the IC3.

Opinion: Cutting Cyber Intelligence Undermines National Security

An opinion piece published by The Cipher Brief (09/03, McDowall, Montgomery) reported that the U.S. is undermining its national security by cutting its cyber intelligence capabilities, despite increasing threats from Russia, China, and Iran. According to the article, the Office of the Director of National Intelligence (ODNI) is planning to slash its intelligence processing and information sharing services, including the termination of the Cyber Threat Intelligence Integration Center (CTIIC) and the Foreign Malign Influence Center (FMIC). The cuts, part of the "ODNI 2.0" plan announced by Director of National Intelligence Tulsi Gabbard, will reduce the U.S.'s ability to protect itself against cyber threats and foreign influence operations, and may send the nation back to pre-9/11 dysfunction. The article explained that FMIC played a critical role in uncovering online influence operations against the United States from Iranian, Russian, and Chinese threats throughout the 2024 election cycle. It worked with the FBI and the CISA to release regular public updates debunking malign content circulated by adversaries. The author assessed that Gabbard falsely equates FMIC's work with the censorship of American citizens. Instead, cuts to the center will reduce Washington's ability to protect American citizens from the state-sponsored influence operations running rampant on the internet.

The article explained that Democrats have criticized the move, saying it's an attempt to reopen a polarizing chapter in American politics and undermine the work of the original January 6 select committee, which was led by Democrats. The article highlighted that the Jan. 6 clash — which spawned the largest domestic investigation in the FBI's history — left Congress, especially the House, cleaved in a bitter partisan divide.

The Ohio Capital Journal (09/04, Ruelas) reported that police agencies in the U.S., including the New York Police Department and the Dallas Police Department, are lowering education standards for new recruits to address staffing shortages. According to the article, the FBI will no longer require a four-year degree for new recruits starting in October, and other federal agencies like ICE are also loosening their standards. - Carnegie: What Americans Really Think About the United Nations – Thursday, September 4, 2025. Location: Online event, 11:00 AM. President Donald Trump is dramatically reshaping U.S. relations with international institutions. He has withdrawn the United States from WHO, UNESCO, the Human Rights Council, and the Paris Climate Agreement; ordered a review of all international treaties and organizations of which the United States is a member; and proposed slashing U.S. funding for the United Nations by more than eighty percent. However, these "America First" moves appear to be out of step with actual U.S. public attitudes. Indeed, recent polling from the Program for Public Consultation shows strong bipartisan domestic support for sustained multilateral cooperation, UN agencies, and even the International Criminal Court.

- Hudson Institute: Freeing China's Political Prisoners – Thursday, September 4, 2025. Location: Online event, 11:30 AM. Given the scope and scale of the political prisoner crisis across China, the United States needs to do more to secure political prisoners' release. The Chinese Communist Party holds at least 1.8 million Uyghurs in political prison camps and nearly 1,000 political prisoners in Hong Kong. In addition, the CCP extrajudicially detains many Tibetans, Christians (including pastors), and political dissidents. This is largely because the CCP sees political prisoners as an essential method of quashing dissent and retaining its power.
- Hudson Institute: The Digital Front Line: Building a Cyber-Resilient Taiwan – Thursday, September 4, 2025. Location: Online event, 2:00 PM. Taiwan sits at the intersection of geopolitics and global supply chains, and its democracy, technological prowess, and strategic location make it both a symbol and a target. As tensions with China grow, the island faces not only the threat of a potential economic blockade or military invasion, but also the danger of cyberattacks. Cyber resilience is a vital component of deterring Chinese aggression against Taiwan.
